

ABSTRACT

A method of logging events in a multimedia integrated receiver decoder comprises the following steps: providing a trigger, transmitting said trigger to said integrated receiver decoder in a data stream together with an event to be monitored, and if said integrated receiver decoder is tuned to said data stream, storing said trigger. This provides for a method wherein the amount of data required to be stored and transmitted is kept to a minimum and wherein the integrity of a user is maintained.